STRATHCONA NEWS

Strathcona, May 18.—Only matters of a routine nature presented themselves at the Strathcona session of the council. A great deal of business was gone through but the gist was rather uninteresting subjects. By the opening of tenders for the excavation work on proposed lines of water and sewer in the city this year the council obtained an accurate idea of what the heavy programme of extensions will cost. A limited number of these tenders were on hand and opened, and a conspicuous feature of the quotations was their wide range of figures.

The water and sewer ditching contracts this year was advertised in two sections. Estimates were asked for the construction of the east end intercepting sewer and laterals, and for the extension to the present system as well as for the proposed water lines extensions.

For the east end sewer lines the tenders were as follows:—A. Mills, Strathcona, $45,859.94. Hulbert and Wilson, Strathcona, $40,403.45. Manley Construction Co., Edmonton, $37,763.98.

Figures for the extensions to present lines were:—A. Mills, $18,705.26, divided as follows for sewer lines $11,167.27; for water mains, $7,537.99. Hulbert and Wilson, $18,385.85, divided, sewer lines, $10,817.20 and water mains $7,568.65. D. Alton and W. Gray, $13,208.96, divided, sewer lines, $8,711.32; water main, $4,497.64. (This firm attached a price of $4 a foot in bid for excavation for manholes). The Manley Construction Co. quoted $12,085.48 for the total work, divided, sewer lines, $8,259.95, water mains, $3,825.53. (This firm required a price of $3.50 per cubic foot for work where blasting would be needed).

The tenders were referred to the water and sewer committee and the city engineer to report at an adjourned meeting of the council Wednesday afternoon.

Will Prepare Tax Arrears Lists

A letter was read from the city assessor which recommended the holding of the proposed tax sale not later than September 1st this year. Mr. Foster pointed out that to run the sale later the proposed would render it almost impossible owing to the accumulation of water that will fall upon the department at that season of the year. The lists should be prepared without delay as nine weeks' advertising is required. Ald. Vogel objected with vehemence against a tax sale earlier than October, but on a motion of Ald. Richards it was decided to authorize the assessor to start immediately upon the preparation of the lists of arrears, the date of sale to be determined later.

The Boy Scouts Discussed

What developed into somewhat of a comedy came up when deputations were being heard. E. T. Haines broached the subject of sending two boys from the Boy Scouts brigade in Strathcona to the Coronation Lodge next month. He thought that as other cities in the province are sending Scouts it might be well for this city to do the same and he had ascertained that $500 would be sufficient for the purpose.

Mr. Haines had scarcely reached his chair before T. G. Allwood, one of the Scouts Masters, rose to register his protest against the proposition. He claimed that it would do no real good to the city and moreover might work harm within the ranks of the Scouts' brigade. He contended that the Strathcona brigade was still too young to be represented and that the necessary qualifications in some respects are lacking.

Rev. H. T. Lynds, chaplain of the Strathcona Scouts, spoke at considerable length on the subject in advocating the expenditure as a good thing. He explained how the Strathcona boys are quite as well qualified as are the Scouts who are being sent from other cities. In the end he made application by letter for the sum of $500 to send two boys scouts to the Coronation. The whole question was turned over to a special committee consisting of Mayor Davies, Pres. Douglas of the board of trade, and Ald. Pugh.

ADMIRAL RODNEY MACLAINS LLOYD DIES SUDDENLY

London, May 18.—Admiral Rodney MacLains Lloyd, R.N., retired, died suddenly at the Royal Naval Club in Portsmouth yesterday from asthma peritons. He was born in 1841 and after serving in India, China and Egyptian wars was made an admiral in 1901. As rear admiral he commanded the Mediterranean fleet in summer of 1899.

St. Paul, Minn., will have three stock companies this summer. One will be James Neil's, with whom will be Ida Conquest, Robert Dronet, John H. Maher and Frances Adler.

special committee for Dominion Day sports be guaranteed against loss in case the affair does not turn out as profitably as expected. He stated in connection that last year there was a surplus of $250 from the sports and with a fine day this year the receipts should at least cover the expenditure. If the guarantee was given the committee they would immediately proceed to complete preparations for a big day of sports. This guarantee was granted.

Mr. McKinnon appeared on behalf of certain residents in Ward Two who wish First street opened past the exhibition grounds. It was decided that the public works and the parks committee confer with Mr. McKinnon.

Residents on St. Placide street petitioned council for the opening of that street to connect with the Riverside park drive in order that they might be provided with an outlet to the west for light traffic. To parks committee and public works.

On motion of Ald. Tipton it was decided that a security of 20 per cent of the contract price, $5,400.71, be ordered paid.

Will Proceed With Grand Stand

At the request of Ald. Tipton the parks committee was authorized to call for plans and specifications for the proposed new grand stand at the exhibition grounds as well as advertising for tenders for the building of fences around the grounds and the race track.

Ald. Rankin reported that the special committee had gone over the ground with a surveyor and found the line near the new candy factory in the south end apparently correct. He also reported that the public works committee had chosen Messrs. G. Bush, H. B. Douglas and Dr. Crane as a committee to select trees for the main street boulevard.

Ald. Rankin called the attention of council to the fact that owners of certain subdivisions were having streets slashed out and in many cases the stumps of timber were left a couple of feet in height. The rubbishing out of these stumps would cost the city nearly fifty per cent more than if the trees were left standing. He thought proper to outline timber on city streets should be prosecuted. Council held the same opinion and referred the matter to the public works committee and solicitor.

C. P. B. Assistant Engineer St. G. Farren wrote relative to a proposed alteration in the grade elevation on the new line of the high level bridge.

Coderdale informed the council that the information on the subject was on hand and it was carefully gone into with the committee in connection with the whole shortly before adjournment.

Delightful Melodrama at Musica Contest

VARIETY OF HARMONY RENDERED AT ALBERTA'S
FOURTH ANNUAL MUSICAL FESTIVAL PLEASES AUDIENCE IMMENSELY AT THISTLE RINK.

Inclement weather deterred many of the musical public from attending one of the most delightful features of the Alberta musical festival last evening, when the choral competitions for small and large choirs and 44 school children, were held in the Thistle Rink.
In spite of the heavy downpour there was a fairly large gathering when the big musical events of the day were presented.

Especially delightful were the anthem, sung by the large choir of All Saints' church under Vernon Barford's direction, who alone entered the field in the large choirs competition for the shield. "Pierce was the Wild Billow," Noble; and "By Babylon's Wave," Gon-dod; were the anthems chosen for this competition, and this event, which was the last on the programme, secured highest praise from both judges. "The performance of these two items," said Dr. Perrin, "lifts the festival this evening to a higher plane." Mr. Woodell declared that in these pieces "the singers set forth of the music singing it with feeling, and almost entirely surmounting the mechanical difficulties." Seventy-three out of a possible eighty marks were given.

In the school children choruses, with which the programme in the Thistle Rink was opened, Norwood school secured the shield. Both this chorus and that of the McKay Avenue school, which obtained second honors, consisted entirely of girls trained by Mr. Ernest Butterworth, and the rendition of both was remarkably sweet and smooth. The McKay Avenue school chorus sang unaccompanied.

The result in the contest for the Ol-ver shield for small choirs leaves the choir of the Robertson Presbyterian church, of which Mr. Jackson Hanley is leader, still in possession of the trophy which they won last year. Seventy-one out of a possible eighty marks were secured by the winners, and the contest
was one of the closest of the festival,
the difference of only one or two marks dividing the winners from St. Loyd nominer, under Mr. F. Stevenson's direction, which had been experienced in making the awards. Even after the decision was reached, the judges had to go carefully over all the markings to see that they were correct, and Dr.
Perrin expressed the very highest appreciation of the excellent work of the judges, by the anthems, by the competing choirs, and the latter piece was sung unaccompanied.

In the rendition of individual parts,
Dr. Perrin described the choir of St.
John's Lutheran, as exceptionally well-balanced. The soprano part was up the pitch and the contraltos were very rich in quality. From the point of view of diction the tenors were the weakest in this choir. Strathcona Methodist were vigorous in attack, with a tendency to coarseness in fortissimo while the basses at the end of the verse were given as piano. The basses supported the rest of the choir. The St. John's Lutheran choir the tenors were again the weak spot. The anthems were vigorously attacked and sung with conviction, and the decision was good all through.

Shading was one of the points of particular excellence in the rendition of the anthems by Robertson choir, and the contrast between the middle and interior parts of "O Sing Unto the Lord" were well brought out. Weakness in attacking leads in initiative passages characterized the tenors. Good balance was shown and the basses support was worthy of highest praise.

In the vocal competitions the entries
this year have shown a twenty-five per cent increase as compared with the festival of 1910. That from a musical standpoint also there is a very marked improvement. The choral competitions show a slight falling off in point of numbers as compared with last year.

Yesterday afternoon in the vocal competition for contraltos, the first prize was won by Miss Constance Buck of Edmonton, who is the holder of the medals for 1908 and 1909. Miss Constance H. Hughes of Edmonton took second, and Miss Hughes was highly commended. The selections in this competition were "Hearken O God, Hearken," and Willeby's "A June Morning." The competition was an exceedingly close one, and but a small margin of marks divided the winner of first honors from her competitors.

"Flow Gently Dews," by Perry, the selection chosen for the competition in tenor and basso duet, was exceptionally well rendered. Blending, phrasing and execution were particularly good in this competition. As occurred in several others of the events, a gold medalist of a former festival again acquired high honors.
Mr. Herbert Turner won the gold medal last year in tenors, and with Mr. Frank Lansdowne, who was third in the baritone on Tuesday evening, won first in the duet yesterday.

At three o'clock the ladies' duets
were sung, the winners being Miss J.
Burrell and Miss E. Cox, both of Strathcona. The judges spoke in high commendation of the contestants in this number. "The Dance of the Fays" by Denza, was the best piece.

In the ladies' trio all the contestants sang well, although little attempt at shading was made by the contraltos.
Three choirs were entered for the competition, from the choirs of Strathcona Methodist, and Edmonton All Saints and Christ church, and first honors
were secured by Mrs. F. Hess, Miss K.
Candy and Miss Constance Buck of All Saints. "Lo Soli" was the best piece chosen for this competition.
One of the most interesting of the events of the afternoon was the boys and girls vocal competition, in which five boys and two girls participated.
Absence of self-consciousness in the contestants added in a degree to the success of their rendition of Sullivan's
"The Chorister." G. L. Panney of Edmonton won first honors. Ronald Brown and Geo. Baugrove of Edmonton being awarded second and third place respectively.

Electricians' Case Shows That Commissioners Are Behind the Times

According to the stand taken by the city commissioners in their negotiations with the electricians, the city of Edmonton is not prepared to adopt the same wages for its employees in the electrical and telephone departments as the city of Calgary pays its electricians and the province of Alberta pays its telephone employees.

When the representatives of the electricians come to the city asking the adoption of their scale of wages the commissioners tell the electricians to send their names as individuals to the superintendents to ask for the wages they want—that the city cannot undertake to deal with the officials of the union.

This is absurdity, refined.

The electricians' organization does not ask the city of Edmonton to make a closed shop agreement with the organization. The electricians did not ask the Alberta government to do anything of the kind, nor did they ask the city of Calgary to recognize the union.

What the electricians do ask is that their scale of wages be adopted by the city as the fair wage for the city.

In order to arrive at this, the electricians ask that the city do its negotiating through the representatives of the organization, who are the agents of the employees for all purposes so far as wages are concerned, and who come prepared to make a collective bargain.

When a group of employees invoke the Lemieux act the arbitration board does not ask whether the representatives whom the men send are officers of a union or not. On the contrary, the Lemieux boards all over Canada are negotiating with union officials, the latest instance of which is the case of the miners in the Crow's Nest, where the president of the district board is the representative of the men.

If the city refuses to treat with the employees for a scale of wages and the employees invoke the Lemieux act, the city will have no option about who it treats with. If the employees choose to appoint the officials of their organizations the city will be required to meet them, and the only thing that the city will have gained through forcing the employees to resort to the Lemieux act is an unenviable notoriety—a notoriety which will bring into prominence the fact that the commissioners of Edmonton are unwilling to pay the same wages that other cities of the west and that the province of Alberta have already agreed to pay.

As a matter of fact, the city of Edmonton at the present time is paying its employees in the electric light and telephone departments the lowest wages now being paid for similar work anywhere west of Lake Superior.

Surely, the city could not hope, in case the employees resort to the Lemieux act, to get away with a scale of wages which is cheaper than is paid at any point within fifteen hundred miles.

To give men who have a case such as this an answer to the effect that the superintendents will deal with them as individuals and consider each man's case individually, is the veriest rort. Employers of labor all over the continent have abandoned that answer twenty years since, and the use of it in Edmonton marks the managers of Edmonton's affairs as men whose mental processes are those of a past age.

The commissioners might better borrow a leaf from Premier Sifton's book, and deal with the men through their organization. They might as well make a necessity of a virtue by paying the Alberta scale, as the city will undoubtedly have to pay the scale if the men resort to the Lemieux act. And they might as well save municipal ownership Edmonton from the ignominy of being branded as a city in which workmen do not get a fair wage.

Some Peculiar Kinks In the Enforcement Of the Criminal Law

There are some peculiar kinks in the law.

To wit: Alex. R. Groff, a citizen of Edmonton comes in contact with the chief of police and in manhandling by this official in such a manner that he feels that he has been grievously abused and that the abuse which he has been subjected to is such as he as a citizen should resent.

He proceeds to the courts to secure from them an expression in legal form of what he considers a fact that the chief acted in a manner unbecomingly for, unnecessarily harsh and dangerous to citizenship generally.

After refusals from Justices of the Peace to hear his case he finds a third who is willing to hear the case. The two J. P.'s who refused to hear his case are paid out of the public funds and are therefore retained in office to protect citizens such as he from assault and abuse from any quarter. The J. P. who consents to hear the case is not regularly retained by the public.

Mr. Groff gets judgment from the lower court convicting the chief of police of assault, with a nominal fine of one dollar imposed, thereby establishing his case, so far as that court was concerned, that he had been the victim of an unprovoked assault at the hands of the man whom the city employs to enforce the keeping of the peace.

The chief of police appeals the case, and the appeal goes onto the docket of the higher court.

Mr. Groff is not a capitalist. He is a workman. He has borne out of his own pocket so far the cost of a private prosecution. He is fighting only for a principle and does not see why he should be called upon, having established that principle, to carry the case at his own cost through the higher courts. He asks through his solicitor that the crown take the case up where he left off and fight it out with the chief.

The court suggests that the crown prosecutor might very properly take up the case.

The crown refuses to act.

Why?

Had the case been reversed, and had Mr. Groff assaulted someone else, would the person assaulted have had difficulty in getting a J. P. to hear his case? Would he have been required to pay the costs of a private prosecution in the police court, and would the crown prosecutor have refused to act against an appeal by Mr. Groff to the higher court?

Does being a chief of police give the man holding that office a license to assault citizens and does the fact that the man is chief of police make him immune from prosecution?

If it does not, why does the crown refuse to take up a citizen's case against a police official; and if it does, what is the difference between Edmonton, Alberta, and Tobolsk, Russia?

Charter Committee Required to Draw up Twin City Charter

The lecture given by Charles Frederick Adams to the Canadian Club yesterday on the commission form of government brings forcibly to mind the fact that with the amalgamation of Strathcona and Edmonton a new charter for the government of the amalgamated city will be required and that there is no time like the present for getting the required charter into shape to be submitted to the legislature when that body meets again next winter.

As the amalgamation proposal stands now two committees, acting for Edmonton and Strathcona, are negotiating with a view to arriving at a basis upon which the amalgamation can be consummated. The principal work of these committees will be to arrive at the financial basis, with which task they are pretty well along.

But at the same time this committee is working out the financial details it might not be a bad idea to have a charter committee working out the legislative details of the plan on which the new amalgamation municipality will be governed.

It would be manifestly absurd to ask Strathcona to accept the Edmonton charter as the code under which the amalgamated city should be governed. Even Edmontonians recognize that the Edmonton charter is so full of loopholes that it is practically unworkable and as a result of which the city is so tied up at the present moment that about the time the amalgamated cities are asking ratification of their agreements the city of Edmonton will be without light and water. How much more readily, then, must Strathcona recognize the absurdities of the Edmonton charter?

With a charter committee appointed to draw up a workable charter it is quite certain that the product of their labors would facilitate the union, especially in view of the fact that such a committee would have a first class opportunity to observe at close range the places where the Edmonton charter is unworkable and would have time to gather data from other cities with modern charters, gathering from these the points of strength developed in their charters.

ALBERTA'S LUMBER RESOURCES

Statistics recently compiled by Paul A. Vonauersberg, of Edmonton, show that in 1919 there were 55,577,000 feet of board measure of lumber manufactured in Alberta, for which the government received $64,800 in ground rentals and royalties. The average selling price per 1,000 feet in Calgary district was $14.81 and in Edmonton $15.90. The increase in output over the year 1909 was 20 per cent, while the increase in lumber imported from British Columbia was 30 per cent. On this basis of increase he figures out that the forests in the province will have been consumed by 1918, the theory being that there is a total yield at present of 500,000,000 feet board measure. A proper protection of the northern woods would require 100 men.

AS OUR NEIGHBORS SEE US

(Strathcona Planiardier)

Why doesn't the Edmonton city council follow the advice of Mr. Justice Stuart as to the manner of selecting that of Commissioner "Boulton"? To get rid of him they should have trouble in establishing their views so as to be in a position to let him in on an orderly manner. Commissioner Boulton appears to have been in his lot with Commissioner Boulton to a considerable extent, a fact which would cause the council to propose to add two more commissioners to the pay roll with the very evident intention of out-voting Boulton and Hatcher. They surely are adopting desperate means to establish a momentary purpose. The new commissioners would be men known to be opposed to Boulton's policies and methods otherwise the present council of six would appoint them.

regard purpose is to freeze Boulton and his kindred of any problems of the future. The situation as it now stands proves to us conclusively that Edmonton's brand of civic government is a failure and must be materially amended before it ceases to be a laughing stock.

It is apparent to us that the doctors rather than the council should have the appointment and discharge of the commissioners under their authority. Election for a term of years is in order and the power of recall by the electors in the case of what might appear gross incompetence or mismanagement.

Immense Stock Pavilion to Be Erected on the Exhibition Grounds

ASSOCIATION PLANS TO HAVE BUILDING COMPLETED AND READY FOR USE IN TIME FOR SPRING RACE MEET IN 1912.

The award on Monday evening of the final contract for the $112,000 stock pavilion which is to be erected at Exhibition park in time for the spring race meet of 1912, marks the beginning of the period of construction of handsome permanent buildings, which in the course of a few years, will make of the Edmonton exhibition grounds the most up-to-date and in every way the ideal fair grounds of the Dominion. Of solid brick, on concrete foundation, its steel trusses supported by massive steel columns, the new pavilion will be a building to compare favorably with the permanent buildings in the largest fair grounds of the east.

Occupying an area 188 feet on the portion of the fair grounds used last year for a judging ring the new pavilion will form the outstanding building feature on the grounds. Around the large arena, 236 by 90 feet, will be seating accommodation for no fewer than 6000 people, inclusive of the private boxes, which seat 800. The seats will be of wood, on steel frame, while in the event of a meeting of unusually large proportions being held, chairs seating an additional 5000 people can be provided in the arena itself. Underneath the gallery, on either side of the south or main entrance, are the stock sheds, with accommodation for 200 head of stock, while here also are the lecture room and cafe, each 36x 80 ft, harness room and washing room. The north end of the pavilion are the stock entrance and carriage room. The cost of the stock pavilion will exhaust about two-thirds of the season's estimated expenditure at the exhibition grounds. Throughout the whole season, the association will expend a total of $150,000, and the $50,000 or so which are left over after provision has been made for a stock pavilion of the most substantial construction will be devoted to various improvements and extensions to other buildings and the beautification of the park.

In accordance with the comprehensive scheme which was adopted last year, a scheme which will occupy a number of years in accomplishing the beautification of the grounds both in the exhibition enclosure and in the outer park to the north, to be used in a considerable degree for athletic purposes, will account for a considerable proportion of the season's expenditure.

Already about one-half of the boulevarding has been done. Two hundred trees have been planted in front of the stock buildings, and before the season is very far advanced the walks would have been transformed from the rough, raw prairie which last year, after each short shower was converted into sloughs, into shaded avenues, shaded with boulevarding, and sidewalks, and shaded by graceful elms. Flower beds will be planted in front of the directors' office, which will be surrounded by a carissima hedge, and before the opening of the 1911 annual fair, the exhibition grounds will have been, in fact, one of the beauty spots of Edmonton.

A nursery has been established close to the horticultural building in which 100 carissima seedlings are planted, 1000 ash seedlings and 500 elms. These are to be planted along the avenues in the spring of 1912.

The Edmonton Portland Cement Co., Limited is founded on two propositions, concerning neither of which, is there the slightest doubt. One is that the demand for Portland Cement in the Edmonton district alone, which means a market more than equal to the entire output of the proposed plant and at a price exceeding $3.00 per barrel. The other is that the company can manufacture cement from the materials which it owns at a cost not exceeding 78c a barrel.

The most successful cement plant constructor in either the United States or Canada has been engaged to build the plant and operate the mill until the success of the enterprise has been established beyond question.

The management of the Company is in the hands of men whom the people of Edmonton know and who can be absolutely trusted to handle this great enterprise with integrity and success.

ARTICLE NUMBER TEN

The Edmonton Portland Cement Company is founded on two fundamental facts: The rapidly growing demand for Portland Cement, and the materials for Cement Manufacture which the Company owns. The growth of the Portland Cement market has no precedent in industrial history. The enormous increase in building alone would have enlarged the demand for Portland Cement beyond anything heretofore known in the history of manufacturing. But in addition to the unprecedented increase in the use of Portland Cement for construction purposes, its use has also extended to a thousand purposes for which it was not originally considered. And all of this is why the production of Portland Cement has increased twenty-two thousand per cent. in the past twenty years; and why its production increased 114,355,549 barrels in 1909 and nearly 12,000,000 barrels in 1910; and why the increase in production in the next ten years will be still greater. The building and railroad construction in Canada alone will increase the demand for Portland Cement on this side of the International line at least 3,000,000 barrels annually. And only two new mills are now contemplated; one at Winnipeg which will ship one of its materials from the far East, and the mill of The Edmonton Portland Cement Company.

The Edmonton Portland Cement Company owns materials sufficient for the manufacture of AT LEAST 12,500,000 barrels of Cement, and no one yet knows how much more. On the basis of present prices, this means a profit of approximately $2.00 a barrel. What the future profit may become depends only upon the increasing disadvantages of new mills. As has been before stated, the two necessary materials for Portland Cement Manufacture have no geological association and are only found near together by mere chance. The whole American Continent has been prospected for Cement materials and the workable deposits are all known. And the Cement company that has both the materials for Portland Cement manufacture near together, has something that is worth more than gold ore, ton for ton.

The Edmonton Portland Cement Company can manufacture Cement under PRESENT CONDITIONS at a profit of $2.00 per barrel. As demand for Portland Cement increases and the disadvantages of competing plants and high freight charges for long hauls, advance the market price of Cement—as the conditions are sure to do—the remarkable advantages of the Edmonton Portland Cement Company will become more and more valuable to its shareholders.

There is no question either as to the market, or the materials. What these mean to the Edmonton Portland Cement Company, are beyond any question at all. The only question which any prospective purchaser of stock can raise is that of management. And that is easily answered.

The Edmonton Portland Cement Company is purely a local enterprise. Its directors are from the very best men in this community. And if such men as Lieutenant-Governor Bulyea, Mr. S. H. Smith, Mr. J. H. Gariepy and their associates cannot be depended upon to administer the affairs of this Company strictly in the interests of its shareholders—then who can?

The construction and operation of the mill will be in the hands of the most capable and experienced men that can be found in either the Dominion or the States. Mr. R. D. Hassan, the constructor, and Mr. T. J. Klossoski, the engineer, have built seventeen Cement Mills in Canada and the States, including the famous International Mill at Hull, and every one of them is a success. Mr. Hassan and Mr. Klossoski, have contracted not only to build a mill of the most modern and efficient design and construction, permanently built and complete in every detail, but they have also agreed to operate the mill for one hundred days after its completion, and demonstrate its perfection in every respect.

No such investment as this was ever before offered to the public of this community. It contains all the attractions of a speculation and all the advantages of an absolutely sure investment. It has all the attractions of a speculation for the reason that the shares are sure to increase in value and the shareholders are sure to receive a dividend of at least 40 per cent. or more. It has all the advantages of an absolutely stable investment because the property owned by the Company makes the future of the enterprise absolutely sure.

The citizen of Edmonton who has $100 or more in idle cash has only to decide whether or not an investment in which he should double his money in two years and multiply it by five in five years, and upon which he can depend for dividends of 40 per cent., is good enough for him.

In a few days these shares will all be gone. More stock has already been subscribed for than was ever before sold in Edmonton in any enterprise. And when this stock is once all allotted the shares are certain to at once go above par.

This proposition is of much importance to the City of Edmonton and of great value to its citizens and deserves the support of every one in this community. The stock books are open at the Parlors of the King Edward Hotel. Shares are $100 each and reasonable terms of payment can be arranged.
